I asked some people
for a valid reason to transition
your gender.
These are their answers.

"because I want to" is a complete and self-supporting reason to transition.

these are the unedited words of real, actual, living trans people.

you, dear reader,
you might be one of them

you like it when someone 'mistakes' you for a different gender (bonus points: and are disappointed if they 'correct' themselves)

because f* the patriarchy?

getting pissed at cis people doing gender wrong

skirts are cool

curiosity

because the show must go on because the moon is in Ophiuchus

It was time for a change.

because reasons

to stick around embodied, I've gotta make this meat suit something I want to stay in because it ain't gonna transition itself knowing about both mens and womens clothes is helpful if you're ever on jeopardy soft skin,,,,

i'm playing a 100% gender completion run

fomo

"who's asking? ... well, that's not any of your business"

don't feel like shaving off my beard so doubled down with testosterone

just out of curiosity, b/c why not know?

My mom already has a son and a nonbinary child; she needed a daughter to complete her collection.

joy.

that time I wore the thrifted suit jacket to the store and got called "sir" made me incredibly happy

"meh I'm bored with this one"

"ooo look at all the fun accessories they have"

"fuck accessories"

"void"

because my fratboy roommate peed behind the fridge while he was drunk, and it was such an undeniably "fratty" move that I realized I was not, had never been, and could never become a man

if it's something you're thinking might bring you joy, you deserve to experience what creating your body through growth might feel like.

Tits, knockers, double D's, fun bags, hooters, chest puppies

Boobs, melons, jubbies, chesticles, mammaries

Milk jugs, big breasts, shoulder boulders on your chest

Because your imaginings of your future/older self are of a different gender than the one you were assigned years ago as a newborn.

because a man is never what i saw in my head because the more i change my self to some definitive, the closer i am to fine~

draft evasion

got too envious of people with good names 8:23 PM if these words resonate with you, if you want to transition your gender too,

it's hot at age 4 i told everyone who would listen i was going to be Bert and Ernie when i grew up.

You want to kill a guy legally and take all his stuff did not want to die wondering if life could be better!

Because the default model was so overrated.

not completely satisfied with just one lousy gender

No but actually, cuz masculinity is cool & gender is fake 🐱

You want to be hot

because you want to get fucked as a girl instead of as a boy fight me Ray Blanchard, you coward makes the absolute worst people mad about your existence

curiosity

wanted to make people confront their sexism minmaxing

you can

realizing it's really toxic to be jealous of a friend just because she's happier after her transition.

someone has to have said this already, but: because you fucking feel like it.

you can transition your gender
